outmne funcfioning in a continuous progress program. The resource teacher will hold regular conferences with teachers so as to allow them to coordinate the experiences of their students. She will work with the parents of the students a helping them to better understand their children and to provide follow – up activities which will benefit them. Provisions are made for part time services of a school psychologist, who will provide diagnostic and consultative services to the program.

In compliance with the Standards of Quality which were mandated by the State Legislature in 1972, a Five Years Plan for Special Education for Appomattox County has been made. The classes at the Primary and Intermediate Schools indicate the initiation of the Plan. Classes for persons possessing all types of handicapped conditions are under consideration for the ensuing years. The ultimate objective of the EMR program is to educate mentally handicapped children so that they become self supporting members of the community, prepared to participate in community affairs, and to perform their citizenship responsibilities. When completely executed, the full program of services should include the following types of classes or groupings: Pre-school, Primary, Intermediate, Junior High and Senior High. Teachers for these classes must hold a teaching certificate showing endorsement in Special Education. Appropriate equipment and instructional materials must be provided since an appropriate curriculum for these students emphasizes learning through special techniques and using special books and materials.

The Title VIII grant will cover the full cost of the Special Education program at the Intermediate School. This includes the salaries of the teacher and teacher aide, all necessary materials and equipment, and the part services of a psychologist.

The Thespian Society has been one of the most active clubs at the Intermediate School this year. Although the club was only organized in the fall of 1971, it has produced three very successful plays in the 1972-73 school year. The Society opened its season with a Christmas performance which consisted of choral readings and a short play. The major production of the year, "Living With Clara's Culture," was produced on Mar. 2nd and 3rd. This play was considered by everyone to be a tremendous success. The club wrapped up its season with the hilarious comedy, "Caring For Karen", performed on May 25 for the entire student body as well as the public. On March 22, the Society members traveled to Longwood College in Farmville. The group thoroughly enjoyed seeing a college production.

The Thespian Society has done much to stimulate an interest in Dramatic Art at the Intermediate School this year. It has afforded interested students the opportunity to express themselves off stage as well as on.
